icare 2018 INSURANCE FOR NSW AWARDS OPEN FOR APPLICATIONS

icare Group Executive for Insurance for NSW (icare IfNSW), Tim Plant, today announced the 2018 Insurance for NSW Conference & Awards (previously known as the TMF conference and awards) have opened for registrations.

The Awards recognise the NSW government sector’s standout performers who create safer work environments through smart and innovative risk management approaches.

“NSW government agencies are the lifeblood of the state’s public sector. We’re committed to protecting the safety and wellbeing of government employees who the public depends on to provide essential public services,” Mr Plant said.

“We do this by supporting agency clients to continuously raise the bar in injury prevention and workplace safety and recognizing their ingenuity in effective risk management approaches to safer workplaces.

“The conference and awards are a prime opportunity for agencies to share information and learn from each other through sharing their experiences. I urge people to get involved as we strive to lift workplace safety outcomes in new and innovative ways”.

The theme of this year’s conference is Prevent and Protect. Delegates will hear from a range of industry experts on how agencies and their business partners can harness the lessons of the past, the world-class business practices of today, and the innovations of tomorrow.

“We want to help all agencies build a culture where they can create robust risk management practices that deliver positive outcomes for the people, businesses and agencies that make NSW great,” Mr Plant said.

Delegates will hear from Keynote speakers at icare’s 2018 Insurance for NSW Conference including:

- Dr Gav Schneider – CEO, Risk2Solution Group; sharing his insights into human based risk management, psychology of risk, and leadership in risk management; and

- Alisa Camplin – Australia’s first Winter Olympics Gold Medalist, Chair of the Australian Sports Foundation and Director of the Australian Sports Commission, the Olympic Winter Institute of Australia and the Collingwood Football Club, speaking about preparing for success, overcoming adversity, building resilience, leadership and building a team.
