Why do we collect personal information?

Personal information is information or an opinion about an identified individual or an individual who is reasonably identifiable.

We collect personal information so that we can:

- identify you and conduct appropriate checks
- assess, manage and investigate motor vehicle accident claims, liability claims, property claims, and miscellaneous claims;
- manage, train and develop our employees and representatives;
- report to government agencies; and
- manage complaints and disputes, and report to dispute resolution bodies.

What happens if you don't give us your personal information?

It is your choice whether you provide your personal information to us however, without your personal information, we may not be able to assess, and manage or investigate a claim.

How we handle your personal information

We collect your personal information directly from you and, in some cases, from other people or organisations. We may also provide your personal information to other related companies within Arthur J. Gallagher, and they may disclose or use your personal information for the purposes described in "Why do we collect personal information?"

Under various laws we will be (or may be) authorised or required to collect your personal information. These laws include the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorism Financing Act 2006, Personal Property Securities Act 2009, Corporations Act 2001, Autonomous Sanctions Act 2011, Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, Income Tax Assessment Act 1936, Income Tax Regulations 1936, Tax Administration Act 1953, Tax Administration Regulations 1976, and A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999, as those laws are amended and includes any associated regulations.

We will use and disclose your personal information for the purposes we collected it as well as purposes that are related, where you would reasonably expect us to. We may disclose your personal information to and/or collect your personal information from:

- other companies within Arthur J. Gallagher and other trading divisions or departments within the same company (to see a list of our brands/companies, visit our website at www.gallagherbassett.com.au/privacy);
